VON HAGGE, SMELEK & BARIL
GOLF COURSE ARCHITECTS

Von Hagge, Smelek and Baril is unsurpassed in golf course design and exceptional golf course renovation worldwide. Each professional shares a passion for excellence, working in concert with one another to complement the entire team in every project undertaken.

James Boorman graduated from Texas A&M University with a degree in Landscape Architecture in 1995. James entered his career with Carter & Burgess, a multi-disciplinary consulting firm in Dallas, Texas as a junior Landscape Architect in the Planning and Landscape Architecture group. He worked on a variety of different projects in numerous sectors of the profession such as the Dallas/ Fort Worth National Cemetery, City of Hot Springs, Arkansas parks and open space master plan, and Timmaron, a master-planned golf course community in Dallas, Texas.

James later relocated to Austin, Texas and joined the prestigious firm of The Broussard Group where he expanded his knowledge of Landscape Architecture and Land Planning by participating in such projects as the Texas State Capital Historical/Architectural and Grounds Renovation, Samsung Corporate Headquarters in Austin, Texas, as well as New Territory a master-planned community in Houston, Texas.

In 1998 James brought his experience in Landscape Architecture and Land Planning to von Hagge, Smelek and Baril. Since becoming a registered professional Landscape Architect in the State of Texas in 2001, he has assisted in the completion of virtually every golf course project in the firm's dossier. Additionally, he has successfully implemented the Computer Aided Drafting program enabling the firm to communicate faster with our foreign clients.
